

Reflection Sample: Mad Lib Postcard

During the last couple of days the Urban EdVenture students have experienced philanthropy first-hand. As citizens of Atlanta, they have been involved in service with various non-profit organizations all around our city.

This reflection activity has a humorous element to it. Amidst the laughter, we hope this activity will also cultivate more serious conversation with your family about the importance of civic engagement.

The students have selected a passage from their reflection journal and underlined within it several nouns, verbs, adjectives and adverbs. This is where you as a family come in! Create a list of substitute words and fill in the blanks. After laughing over the nonsensical paragraph and silly sentences, have your child share their actual entry. Discussion will naturally follow.
