

Opposite Pairs

1. Stand on the right if you prefer Coke; stand on the left if you prefer Pepsi.
2. Stand on the right if you prefer regular Cheetos; stand on the left if you prefer Hot Cheetos.
3. Stand on the right if you prefer enchiladas; stand on the left if you prefer tacos.
4. Stand on the right if you prefer Xbox; stand on the left if you prefer Wii.
5. Stand on the right if you prefer math; stand on the left if you prefer language arts.
6. Stand on the right if you think cheating on a test is okay; stand on the left if you disagree.
7. Stand on the right if you think wearing a helmet while riding a bike should be mandatory; stand on the left if you disagree.
8. Stand on the right if you think a dress code is a good idea; stand on the left if you disagree.
9. Stand on the right if you prefer enchiladas; stand on the left if you prefer tacos.
10. Stand on the right if you prefer hot dogs; stand on the left if you prefer hamburgers.
11. Stand on the right if you think eating breakfast will help you succeed in school; stand on the left if you disagree.
12. Stand on the right if you think scientists should be able to test new products on animals; stand on the left if you disagree.
13. Stand on the right if you like to watch TV; stand on the left if you would rather do something else.
14. Stand on the right if you think people lose their identity when they join a group; stand on the left if you disagree.
15. Stand on the right if you think people born in a country should have more rights than newcomers; stand on the left if you disagree.
16. Stand on the right if you think friends are more important than family; stand on the left if you think family is more important than friends.
17. Stand on the right if you think everyone should go to college; stand on the left if you disagree.
18. Stand on the right if you think it is better to spend your money; stand on the left if you think it is better to save your money.
19. Stand on the right if you think illegal drugs should be made legal; stand on the left if you disagree.
20. Stand on the right if you think "nerdy" kids deserve to be picked on; stand on the left if you disagree.
21. Stand on the right if you think it is cool to be smart; stand on the left if you disagree.
22. Stand on the right if you think not eating helps you to lose weight; stand on the left if you disagree.

Special thanks to Anne Muller and Austin Independent School district for sharing the list of opposites for this activity

