

LEARNING TO GIVE

The Tools You Need to Educate, Equip, and Empower Today's Youth for a Better World

If you work with young people, you've seen it – a spark that shines. All youth are capable of using their strengths and passions to impact their community and shape a brighter future. At Learning to Give, we've put together a comprehensive set of free online resources to help leaders and educators like you nurture youth voice and innate sense of caring. Based on International Philanthropy Curriculum Standards, our lessons and activities help kids of all ages learn about philanthropy and practice empathy, generosity, and leadership while taking ownership of their role in lighting up the world.

Lifelong Philanthropy:

- Social Responsibility: Young people understand that we all have time, talent, or treasure to share.
- Value: Youth discover that their words and actions matter, and the community values their voice and energy.
- Purpose: Individuals see they are a vital part of something bigger.
- Connection: Kids recognize that it takes all of us to make our community stronger.

Online Resources:

- Activities to envision a better world and build community
- Tools to develop skills and knowledge
- K-12 lesson plans and activities
- Film and literature guides
- Service project ideas and toolkits
- Youth group facilitator guidelines
- Professional development mini-courses
- Models and stories to get you started

In Your Community:

Use Learning to Give resources anywhere you find kids!

- Families
- Faith-based groups
- Schools
- Clubs and after-school programs
- Community nonprofits
- Government-sponsored work
- Leadership and service groups

Together, we can help the next generation light up the world.

Get started today at www.learningtogive.org.

A proud part of the Council of Michigan Foundations

@learningtogive | learningtogive.org