

This Quick Harvest guide is designed to assist a school team in cultivating a school community of caring.

		Link	Planning Notes	Who takes action? (students, one teacher, all staff, leader, community)	Document completion of lessons, activities, learnings
Step 1	Invite Learning to Give staff to your PLC or staff meeting for a 15 minute virtual introduction to Learning to Give. Or give a brief website tour highlighting the Get Started page, search features, and TeachOne initiative.	kherrygers@learningtogive.org
Step 2	Create a free Learning to Give account to get full access to resources, including newsletter, mini-courses, and opportunities to collaborate with other schools/teachers.	https://www.learningtogive.org/user/register
Step 3	Select a time period in which teachers simply TeachOne lesson (choose from three themes per year). Reflect on the experience and impact.	https://www.learningtogive.org/teachone
Step 4	Plan a whole-school service project, which may include variations or assignments for each grade level.	https://www.learningtogive.org/teach/issue-areas
Step 5	Reflect on the experience and talk about actual and potential impact on students' learning, attitudes, and community awareness.	https://www.learningtogive.org/system/tdf/handouts/Educator%20Reflection
Step 6	Share the stories of service as well as teacher and student reflections with the whole school, parents, community, and the school board. Stories may be shared through demonstration, writing, performance, or social media. Be sure to share your stories with Learning to Give on Facebook and Twitter!	https://www.learningtogive.org/news/document-share-philanthropy-			