

My Communities

Sacrifice: "A surrender of something of value as a means of gaining something more desirable or preventing some evil". --Collins English Dictionary.

"Most sacrifices are made in the hope of a result, that things will be better or less evil in future. Some are made to give thanks for better things already received." --Michael Ranken

Reproduction permitted provided source acknowledged.

First published in Guildford Cathedral Papers, Autumn 1990. (Both of these quotes come from the same source.)

1. What sacrifices did the Native American people offer that helped them to contribute toward the success of their communities?

2. List 3 communities that you are a part of.

3. What beliefs or habits do you have that help you to be a positive member of your communities?

4. List 4 ways that you can act in the interest of the common good to contribute to your community/ies.

