

Project Choices

YOU control this project!

Design a project that expresses who you are. Choose a format from the list below or generate your own idea! Follow the guidelines of the rubric and have something to share with your classmates by this date:

Talk to family members to gain more information about family traditions (including traditions of giving/philanthropic traditions) and the types of traits you may have inherited.

You will present something that represents you as an individual – something that defines your identity. Include how your identity helps you contribute to the community and make it stronger (now or in the future).

Project Ideas

- Make a collage (on the computer or cut out pictures from magazines) with at least 10 images/words that define you.
- Compile a soundtrack with at least 10 songs that define who you are or songs that you identify with (make a CD or just a play list).
- Create a cookbook with recipes that you love – what are your favorite foods, snacks, restaurants? (at least ten examples)
- Generate a database on www.delicious.com or wikipedia and include 10-15 of your favorite websites.
- Develop your own book club or best-seller list with your top ten books that you have read – fiction or non-fiction.
