

Service-Learning Proposal Worksheet Names of Group Members:

1. SKILLS ASSESSMENT: List all the skills of students in your group, such as musical talents, sports ability, arts or drama, office skills, vocational skills, basic ability to read and do math. Don't underestimate yourselves!
2. What project does this group want to propose? (Be as specific as you can at this point.)
3. What need does this project address?
4. How will the project help the problem or issues of concern?
5. How will students in the class benefit from doing this project?
6. How would 250-300 hours of community service be divided up in this project?
(Think about the different ways that all students in the class would each be able to perform 10 hours of service.)
7. When would the majority of the work need to be done?
8. What questions need to be answered before this project is selected?
(For example, if you want to work with Habitat for Humanity, you would need to find out if they have a project in process during the semester.)
9. Who is going to get the answers to these questions for next week?
(Time spent finding the answers can be counted toward community service hours.)
