

Taking It With You

When you walk away from these texts, what is the message you take with you? Combine the texts into your recipe for living on the earth. You can name it, list the ingredients or draw it, being certain that the message of both texts is somehow combined into your personal belief!

